Conditions of bail

The Tribunal grants immigration bail to the applicant subject to the following condition(s):

Residence

The applicant must reside at [redacted] subject to that address being approved by the Probation Service/Offender Manager.
Where an Immigration Judge makes a conditional grant with deferred commencement:

The applicant will reside at an address approved by the probation/offender manager.

By virtue of para 3(8) of schedule 10 of The Immigration Act 2016 this grant of bail will not commence until such address has been approved by probation.

The approval of a residence address will be reviewed by the Tribunal on the first available date after [28] days unless the Tribunal is notified prior to that date that accommodation has been approved and bail commenced in which case the matter will be dealt with administratively.

In the event that the applicant has not been released then at least 2 clear days before the bail review hearing, the Secretary of State is to update the Tribunal in writing as to the progress made in relation to sourcing and/or approving accommodation for the applicant.

Appearance

The applicant is to appear before an Immigration Officer at a date and time and place that will be notified to him in writing on release

Electronic monitoring

Note: Where the Tribunal has directed that the Applicant should be subject to an electronic monitoring condition there may be a delay of release of up to 72 hours pending arrangements for the electronic monitoring device.

Bail is granted conditional upon:

the applicant being compliant with the fitting of an electronic monitoring device at the point of release from detention; and the Secretary of State promptly arranging the fitting of the electronic monitoring device at the place of the Applicant's detention. If the secretary of State does not complete the fitting of the electronic monitoring device within 72 hours then this grant of bail will commence and the applicant is to be released subject to the other conditions of this grant of bail. In such an event the Secretary of State will make arrangements for the fitting of the electronic monitoring device post release.
