1.The Applicant will reside at an address to be provided by the Home Office.

2. By virtue of para 3(8) of schedule 10 of The Immigration Act 2016 this grant of bail will not commence until such address has been provided by the Home Office.

3. The provision of a residence address will be reviewed by the Tribunal on [redacted] 2026 unless the Tribunal is notified prior to that date that accommodation has been provided in which case the matter will be dealt with administratively and management of bail will be transferred to the Respondent.

4. That in the event of the Applicant applying for any variation of address or bail that the Home Office be notified of the details of the application.

Appearance

The Applicant must appear before an Immigration Officer on a date and time and by such means as may be notified to him by the Home Office in writing.

Electronic monitoring

Note: Where the Tribunal has directed that the Applicant should be subject to an electronic monitoring condition there may be a delay of release of up to 72 hours pending arrangements for the electronic monitoring device.

Bail is granted conditional upon:

the applicant being compliant with the fitting of an electronic monitoring device at the point of release from detention; and the Secretary of State promptly arranging the fitting of the electronic monitoring device at the place of the Applicant's detention. If the secretary of State does not complete the fitting of the electronic monitoring device within 72 hours then this grant of bail will commence and the applicant is to be released subject to the other conditions of this grant of bail. In such an event the Secretary of State will make arrangements for the fitting of the electronic monitoring device post release.
